

CGLaw Welcomes Property Development Lawyer Carly Brailak

We are pleased to announce that Carly Brailak has joined Clifford Gouldson Lawyers in the position of Special Counsel.

Carly has more than 17 years' experience in property and commercial law with large legal practices and most recently has been running her own practice, Pearl Commercial Law, in Brisbane's west.

Carly has particular expertise in assisting clients achieve successful outcomes with property development projects including the BTP Westlink Green Precinct at Darra, the Quest Hotel at Eight Mile Plains, the Brothers Sports Club at Bundaberg and the residential community titles development M25 Sherwood. Carly also acts for a number of owners of commercial office buildings in the Brisbane Technology Park, where she assists with the acquisition, improvement and leasing of assets and the titling and development of new builds. Carly's current clients include commercial, industrial and residential property developers, managed investment trusts, high net worth individuals and self-managed superannuation funds.

Carly also has a wealth of experience in business sales and acquisitions which will complement CGLaw's busy commercial practice.

Carly will join the Commercial + Property team lead by Director Amanda Tolson.

In welcoming Carly to the firm Amanda said, "Carly brings an exceptional amount of experience and expertise in the unique legal issues that contribute to successful property development projects.

"We are very excited, and exceptionally lucky, to have such an experienced property development lawyer joining our firm and bringing her experience to Toowoomba.

"We believe that Carly's depth and breadth of expertise in this area is beyond what has previously been available in the Toowoomba market and her interest in joining us is one more indication of the maturity and confidence of the local property market."

Carly is relocating with her husband and young family to Toowoomba to live and will primarily work out of the CGLaw Toowoomba office as well as continuing to service existing clients with days spent in Brisbane.

Carly said, "I'm very pleased to have the opportunity to join a dynamic, growing firm like Clifford Gouldson.

"While I've loved the independence of running my own firm the opportunity to work with a larger, highly skilled team and provide greater depth of support to my clients is something I'm really looking forward to.

"My current clients will continue to receive the same personal service and attention that they currently enjoy, while the support provided by Clifford Gouldson will mean I can expand my client base and look for new opportunities to assist clients in Toowoomba and further afield."
